Braves Reach Gumbert for 11 and He Suffers Initial Loss Since Giants Traded Him

By The Associated Press. BOSTON, June 4-Art Johnson, rookie southpaw, dropped the Cardinals down into second place today by holding them to nine scattered hits as the Braves belted Harry Gumbert for a 4-2 victory. It was Gumbert's first setback in five starts since St. Louis obtained him from the Giants.

Boston scored twice in the first inning after filling the bases on a single and two errors. Sebby Sisti tallied the first counter on Eddie Miller's fly to left and Johnny Cooney romped in from third when

Carvel Rowell connected safely. Run Scored on Double Play

Rowell scored from third in the fourth inning as Phil Masi drove into a double play, and the Braves collected their final run in the seventh when Max West drove in Cooney from second base. The Braves pounded Gumbert for eleven hits, three by Rowell, who tripled with none on and two out in the sixth and was stranded as Masi grounded out.

While dropping out of a firstplace tie with the idle Dodgers, the Cardinals were shut out until the sixth, when with two out, Enos throw to the plate.

With the throw-in, Crespi raced vide the Cards with their other run. Chicago club. Pitcher Starts Poorly

Johnson, who had won two of his previous three starts, got under way in ragged fashion, but slick fielding by his infield pulled him out of his early holes. He gave nine hits, the only other one after the sixth being Crespi's second two-bagger in the ninth, when the Cardinals' last threat was extinguished by the Braves' third twin killing. FUNERAL SERVICE FOR GEHRIG IS HELD

HARRIDGE, FRICK ATTEND

Among Others at Ceremony -Hundreds Stand in Rain

The funeral service for Lou Gehrig yesterday was as simple and memory it was held. Not more than a hundred intimates of one of baseball's immortals-relatives, friends and associates-were in the flowerbanked Christ Church in Riverdale for a last farewell to the renowned Iron Horse.

Rain pattered down on the ivycovered church as the Rev. Gerald readjustment in the Pittsburgh V. Barry read the Episcopal serv- club's visit to the Polo Grounds in Kirby Highe against the Chicagoof Gehrig's family. Then he added a single sentence that was a eulogy all knew him."

The ceremony in the church lasted no more than eight minutes. Then the mahogany coffin, with its blanket of red roses, was carried to the hearse and finally to the Fresh Pond Crematory at Middle Village in Queens.

An Affecting Ceremony Lou Gehrig is gone but not many who witnessed the simple but affecting service will forget it. Eyes were misty and throats choked because the persons in the church were those closest to the departed diamond ace.

moist throughout. But the most surprising display came from Bill Terry, manager of the Giants. Terry, supposedly unsentimental, choked up as the coffin passed him and had to brush away tears.

The little cross-shaped church was just about half filled during the service. Charlie McManus, superintendent of the Yankee Stadium, had stationed himself outside to indicate to the police guard who were to gain admittance.

Hundreds stood in the rain on the outer driveway of the Henry ing off their minds. Hudson Parkway before and after the ceremony. This was strictly private funeral, the public having had its chance to view the body when it lay in state in the church the night before.

The coffin had been moved out from the altar rail into the aisle yesterday morning. Lou's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gehrig, were the first members of his family to arrive in the church and they took their places in a front
